A practical and interactive workshop that follows the book Managing to Learn by John Shook. It is designed to equip organisations on the lean journey and strengthen a culture of learning, problem-solving and scientific thinking. A3 coaching forms a key component of the learning. Suitable to manufacturing, service, healthcare and public sector. This workshop is also available for on-site delivery.

The workshop includes presentations from the facilitator, small group discussions and reflection activities.

- A3 Thinking in support of the lean management system and the development of a learning culture
- Alternative ways to use the A3
- Using the A3 in coaching and staff development
- Developing your A3 in stages and presenting your thinking
- Grasping the Current Situation and implementing the Change
- Exploring the thinking patterns sitting behind the tool
